

1453 ex 79.

Wien. Octob. 5. 1879.

Sehr geehrter Herr!

Abermals muss ich Sie mit Bitten belästigen, denn in Ihrer letzten Sendung finden sich wieder einige Species, welche von hohem Interesse sind und von welchen ich Sie höflichst bitten möchte mir, wenn irgend möglich, grössere Quantitäten einzusammeln.

N^o 718 Ficus Carica — 150 ganze, nicht zerschnittene Blätter.

N^o 721 Myrtus communis — 400 Blätter.

N^o 724. Acer pseudoplatanus — 250 ganze, nicht zerschnittene Blätter.

Im Voraus herzlich dankend

Herr

hochachtungsvoll ergebener
Dien

1894

1894

The year 1894

The year 1894 was a year of great activity and progress in all directions. The work of the year was to bring the various departments of the institution into closer cooperation and to secure a more efficient and economical management. This was accomplished by the formation of a central office, the establishment of a system of reports, and the adoption of a more uniform method of book-keeping.

The year 1894 was also a year of great success in the various departments. The work of the year was to bring the various departments of the institution into closer cooperation and to secure a more efficient and economical management. This was accomplished by the formation of a central office, the establishment of a system of reports, and the adoption of a more uniform method of book-keeping.

The year 1894 was a year of great activity and progress in all directions. The work of the year was to bring the various departments of the institution into closer cooperation and to secure a more efficient and economical management. This was accomplished by the formation of a central office, the establishment of a system of reports, and the adoption of a more uniform method of book-keeping.